

AMERICAN RECOGNITION OF RUSSIA NEARING

RUSSIA JUST COMPLETES PACT WITH JAPAN

PRES. COOLIDGE MAY APPOINT COMMISSION TO NEGOTIATE IN SUMMER

NECESSARY FOR U. S. TO BE ON AN EQUAL FOOTING WITH JAPAN

(By United Press)
Washington, Jan. 22.—American recognition of Russia has moved a step nearer with the signing of the Japanese-Russian treaty in Peking, which isolates the United States as the only major country now refusing to recognize the soviet union. Japan, by obtaining oil and coal concessions in Saghalien under the treaty provided herself with the necessary supplies in event of war in the Pacific.

Unless the Russians start fresh campaign of denunciation against the United States government, President Coolidge is expected to appoint a commission to negotiate with Moscow next summer or autumn. Similar overtures were made semi-secretly by this government through Berlin in the summer of 1922 but were repulsed by Moscow on the ground that Russia would not be "investigated" unless it could probe American conditions at the same time.

The new Japanese-Russian accord makes it expedient for the United States, with its interests in China and the Far East, to be on an equal footing with Japan regarding Russia, but events in Moscow this week have partly counteracted that tendency.

The ousting of War Commissar Trotsky is interpreted here as indicating the ascendancy of Zinoviev and the so-called absolutist group, even more distrustful than Trotsky and Tchitcherin, head of the communist internationale, may make negotiations with America more difficult.

On the other hand Russian inability to export grain this year, which enabled her last year to stabilize her money, may make the soviet government more willing to meet Washington half way in negotiations.

Factors leading the Coolidge administration to negotiate with Russia are:

1. Belief that the soviet government is relatively permanent and must be recognized sooner or later.
2. Political and economic disadvantages arising from isolation of the United States as the only remaining power refusing Russia recognition, especially the handicap involved in Chinese and Far Eastern affairs.
3. Pressure of American business interests whose exports to Russia now exceed pre-war value.
4. Change in American public opinion from hostility to indifference, or advocacy of Russian recognition.

Recognition will not immediately follow appointment of the committee, but acceptance in principle by the Russians of the $251,000,000 Kerensky debt and expropriation claims of $800,000,000 would bring recognition before the claims and counter-claims were fixed or payments begun.

BOY SHOT AS HE ATTEMPTED HIS ESCAPE

(By United Press)
Austin, Minn., Jan. 22.—Tony Polornik, 22, was shot and killed late last night by Officer Arthur Pielke when the boy attempted to escape. He was being questioned regarding a package on his person, which later proved to be liquor.

Pielke approached the lad as he emerged from a poolhall. When the boy started to run the officer fired. He said he thought he aimed his revolver high in the air, but the bullet struck Polornik and he died almost instantly.

A bottle of liquor taken from the dead man's pocket was presented as evidence at the coroner's hearing today.

Pielke was held in the county jail pending the outcome of the inquest.

HAIR TRIGGER REVOLVERS FOR CHICAGO COPS

CHIEF AIMS TO PUT AN END TO "HIP POCKET WEAPONS"

POLICE ARE INSTRUCTED TO DRAW AND SHOOT QUICKLY

(By United Press)
Chicago, Jan. 22.—As part of his new offensive against crime and criminals, Chief of Police Morgan A. Collins today ordered "hair trigger" revolvers for policemen and put an end to "hip pocket weapons."

"Our officers are in danger of being shot before they can draw their guns, if they carry them in hip pockets," Collins explained. "From now on they have them out so they can draw and shoot quickly."

Chief Collins has ordered policemen to "shoot to kill" when they encounter bandits or holdup men.

One bandit was killed and another shot, wounded and captured last night by a motorcycle policeman off duty. The officer, Ralph Cheney, encountered two men carrying revolvers and asked an explanation. They replied by firing at him. A bullet struck him in the shoulder. He fired three times, the three bullets killing one man and wounding his companion.

Aside from this shooting no major crimes or attempted crime were committed. More than a dozen petty burglaries were reported, however.

The bill was passed by the legislature two years ago after a bitter fight. It was vetoed by Governor McCray.

MOTHER AND BABY DAUGHTER BURNED TO DEATH

TRAGEDY OCCURRED TODAY AT MRS. L. T. DELEZEN'S HOME IN BEMIDJI

DOORS WERE FOUND TO BE LOCKED FROM THE INSIDE

(By United Press)
Bemidji, Minn., Jan. 22. — Mrs. Lewis T. Delezen, 33, and a baby daughter, Dorothy, were burned to death when fire destroyed their home today. The doors were locked from the inside.

Neighbors discovered the flames and broke down a door to gain entrance. By that time the interior was seething with flames and entry was impossible.

When the fire died down two charred bodies were found in the ruins. Identification was impossible at first, but when the husband and the woman's oldest son by a previous marriage, Wilbur Haines, were located at Kelliher, fire department officials were satisfied Mrs. Delezen and Dorothy were the victims.

The place was a two-story frame structure heated by wood stoves. The position of the bodies and other evidence led authorities to believe the woman threw kerosene or gasoline in the stove and an explosion resulted.

(By United Press)
Minneapolis, Jan. 22.—Harry T. Alsop, Fargo, was elected president of the Northwestern Lumbermen's association at the final session of its convention in Minneapolis today.

Albert Malone, Minneapolis, was chosen vice-president, and Ralph Crane, Austin, Minn., was named to the board of directors.

Higher freight rates on lumber to be put in effect January 31 were protested in a resolution passed today. The rates will seriously affect a prospective building boom, it was stated. The three-day convention concluded with a luncheon.

DEAD DOG GIVES MUTE TESTIMONY FOR WIFE IN DIVORCE ACTION

Minneapolis, Jan. 22.—Teddy loved both his master and his mistress, but when he was brought into district court in Minneapolis his testimony was all for his mistress.

Teddy was a fox terrier and whenever master and mistress quarreled he would cuddle up against first one and then the other in a mute plea for harmony.

One day his mistress, Mrs. Nellie Thompson, became so enraged at her husband, Clem Thompson, that she started for him with a butcher knife, according to the husband's story.

When Teddy, the husband says, saw the knife, he jumped up between them and he received the blow intended for Mr. Thompson.

When the divorce action started Mr. Thompson decided to bring Teddy into court to show the scar. Just a few days ago Teddy was run over by an automobile and killed, so his body was brought into court.

But when the little dog's white hair was turned back in court yesterday not a sign of a scar could be found. After this last of his mute pleas for harmony between the persons he loved, Teddy was taken out and buried.

DEAN POUND NEW PRESIDENT WISCONSIN

SELECTION WAS MADE AT LAST NIGHT'S MEETING BOARD OF REGENTS

VOTE FOR FORMER HARVARD LAW SCHOOL PROFESSOR IS UNANIMOUS

(By United Press)
Madison, Wis., Jan. 22. — Dean Roscoe Pound of Harvard Law school has been elected president of the University of Wisconsin to succeed President E. A. Birge, it became known today.

The selection was made at a meeting of the university board of regents here last night. The vote for Dean Pound was unanimous.

An official announcement of his acceptance was expected within a few days.

More than 50 leading educators of the nation have been up for consideration before the regents' presidential committee in the six months' search for a new head of the university.

Within the last few weeks, however, the choice narrowed down to Dean Pound and two or three other men.

Dean Pound is politically a republican, but is regarded as a liberal and he is known to be a close friend of Justice Louis D. Brandeis of the United States supreme court.

The presidential committee voted unanimously for Dean Pound yesterday afternoon. Only one member, Miss Zona Gale, Portage, well-known novelist, was absent.

A secret session of the regents was immediately called and the committee's choice was ratified.

Dean Pound, who is 54 years old, is a native of Nebraska.

EQUITY CO-OP. PACKING PLANT SOLD BY TRUSTEE

FARGO INSTITUTION PASSES OVER TO SIOUX CITY, IOWA CONCERN

BUILT AT COST OF ABOUT $2,000,000—IDLE PAST 3 YEARS

(By United Press)
Fargo, N. D., Jan. 22.—The Equity Co-operative Packing plant at West Fargo has been sold by Trustee Morton Page to the Hanford Produce company, Sioux City, Iowa, for $75,000, subject to the confirmation of the referee in bankruptcy. A petition for an order approving the sale was filed in Federal court today.

Interested parties will be given a hearing January 31. According to some of the local stockholders the sale would mean total loss of their investment to between 25,000 and 30,000 stockholders.

The packing plant was built at cost estimated to be between $1,500,000 and $2,000,000 and has been idle for three years. A year ago it went into the hands of a receiver. The purchasing company has agreed to operate the plant, according to the petition.

NEW JERSEY JURY FAILS TO AGREE

HEARD TRIAL OF 10 POLICEMEN CHARGED WITH RUM RUNNING

GRAND JURY REPORTED TO TAKE FURTHER STEPS IN INVESTIGATION

(By United Press)
Jersey City, N. J., Jan. 22.—The jury in the trial of 10 policemen and two civilians charged with rum running along the docks of Weehawken reported disagreement today.

The jury stood for 15 hours 9 to 3 for conviction.

The jury retired yesterday at 3:10 p. m. and was locked up all night in the jury room after eight hours of fruitless deliberation.

This development probably means the men indicted will not be placed on trial again by the Hudson county prosecutor but will be turned over to the Federal authorities.

Of almost equal interest to the jurors' inability to settle on a verdict was the announcement of Prosecutor Milton that United States Senator Edward I. Edwards probably would be summoned before the grand jury to reply to testimony developed during the trial that he had accepted $3,800 in a liquor transaction.

PRIEST STARTED TO "CLEAN UP THE DOCKS"

Jersey City, Jan. 22.—The men on trial were William F. Griffin, Jersey City real estate operator and alleged "master mind" of the conspiracy. Harry J. Stearns, councilman and chairman of the police committee in Weehawken, and 10 policemen, three of them officers.

Indictment of the men followed decision of Rev. George Bennett, Catholic priest, to "clean up the docks." On the witness stand he told a story of seeing uniformed policemen unloading liquor from a vessel but was unable to identify Griffin as leader of the gang, although he saw a man on the scene who was called Griffin.

Sensor Edwards was implicated by the testimony of Lionel Wilson and Charles Hurlbut, Federal prohibition enforcement agents, who said $3,800 was paid to Edwards for 100 cases of Scotch whiskey Griffin was to supply, but that the senator returned the money the following day, the deal falling through.

The defense attacked the credibility of this testimony, bringing admission from Wilson that he had been convicted of petty larceny.

TO PRESENT A RENOVATED CASE

Washington, Jan. 22.—Col. George T. Vickers, special prosecutor in the Weehawken rum conspiracy trial, will be given another chance to convict the 10 policemen and two civilians who were freed by the disagreement of the jury in Jersey City today.

Mrs. Mabel Walker Willebrandt, special assistant attorney-general in charge of prohibition, today said the department of justice retained its confidence in Vickers and did not contemplate taking the case into the federal court at present.

Evidence involving Senator Edward I. Edwards of New Jersey in a $3,800 liquor transaction, brought out at the trial, also will be handled by Vickers, who is expected to present a renovated, rebuilt case against the alleged smuggling ring to a new jury soon.

FOR CONVICTION, FOR ACQUITTAL

Jersey City, N. J., Jan. 22.—Future prosecution of the New Jersey liquor ring is in doubt. Authorities disagreeing on the procedure to be followed after the failure of the jury in the first trial which ended today. "I think the federal government should take the case now," Prosecutor

2 DRUG STORE BANDITS ARE SENTENCED

(By United Press)
St. Paul, Jan. 22.—Two drug store bandits were sentenced to serve from five to 40 years each in the state penitentiary today.

Jack Rentz, 32, leader of the "Hudson Coach" bandit gang, changed his plea to guilty today and was sentenced by Judge J. C. Michael. He asked the court to sentence him to Stillwater and give him a recommendation so that he might get through his "stretch" there and go back to Joliet, where he "owes" the Illinois penitentiary eight years.

Arthur Anderson, the "timid bandit," was given a similar sentence to that of Rentz when he pleaded guilty before the same court.

FRENZIED FINANCE OF YOUNG TURMAN DISTURBS N. Y.

YOUNG MAN FORGED NOTES, IT IS CHARGED, FOR OVER A MILLION

MOST AMAZING STORY HE EVER HEARD, SAYS DISTRICT ATTORNEY

(By United Press)
New York, Jan. 22.—Continuing the investigation of the frenzied finance through which 27-year-old Moe Turman came to grief after forging notes for more than $1,300,000, Assistant District Attorney Ferdinand Pecora today set about securing a full list of the victims of the youth's mad business bubble.

"It is the most amazing story I have ever heard," Pecora said as he went deeper into the "borrow from Peter to pay Paul" plan that through 10 years ran an original debt of $100 past the million mark.

Turman yesterday was indicted on a charge of second degree forgery and admitted to $5,000 bail at the suggestion of counsel for some of the plaintiffs, because he voluntarily returned from Kansas City to help straighten out the tangle. The forgeries of names of prominent business men may aggregate $2,000,000. It is not known as yet whether other indictments will be returned against him.

Because Turman paid high rates of interest on money he borrowed—sometimes as high as 300 per cent—the net loss to his investors is believed may be but $400,000.

Turman himself says he has but a $10,000 bank account and that all he got of the hundreds of thousands passing through his hands was $20,000, most of which he gave to charitable and philanthropic institutions.

cutor MacMahon said. "We have done the best we could. Perhaps a different verdict could be obtained if the case were retried before a federal jury."

Washington advices, however, indicated the attorney-general's office favors a new trial in the county courts.

GOVERNOR IN STAND ON AUTO TRANSPORTATION

FAVORS GROSS EARNINGS TAX ON MOTOR VEHICLES SO ENGAGED

AS WELL AS ON STEAM AND ELECTRIC HAUL-AGE

(By United Press)
St. Paul, Jan. 22.—Governor Christianson favors a gross earnings tax on motor vehicle transportation as well as steam and electric transportation.

He made this known at the annual banquet of the St. Paul Transportation club last night.

As long as motor buses compete with railroads and both passenger and freight hauls it is only fair that they should be required to come under the same regulations, he said.

A measure embodying his ideas is expected to be introduced in the legislature soon.

Several new bills were ready for introduction today when the house met at 2 o'clock this afternoon.

Among them was one which would collect 25 instead of 10 per cent of the receipts from boxing shows for the state tuberculosis fund.

Committee meetings were held this morning. Bills on markets, railroads, corporations, education, soldier's home, labor and public buildings were to be recommended for passage.

CHAPMAN BACK TO FEDERAL PRISON

NOTORIOUS DESPERADO AND JAIL BREAKER AGAIN AT ATLANTA

(By United Press)
Atlanta, Ga., Jan. 22. — Gerald Chapman, notorious desperado and jail breaker, was returned to federal prison here today.

Chapman arrived at the union station on a regular passenger train in custody of two guards. Two deputy wardens in an automobile met the party and they were whisked away to the penitentiary.

Chapman's arrival at the station was a surprise, as it had been reported the party would leave the train at a point outside Atlanta and then go to the prison.

The transfer from the train to the prison automobile was not even noticed by hundreds of persons who lined the station platform.

The prisoner was heavily chained and handcuffed and appeared meek and subdued in the latest role of his notorious career. After arriving at the prison he was placed in an ordinary cell and the handcuffs and chains removed.

INCOME TAX EXPERT TO AID IN MAKING REPORTS

"Owing to the fact that there have been general changes in the Revenue Act of 1924, taxpayers will need assistance in the preparation of their income tax returns. These returns must be filed with the Collector of Internal Revenue on or before March 15th, 1925, and in order that the proper assistance may be given, Deputy Collector George Meekes will be at Brainerd from February 10th to February 13th, inclusive. As it will be difficult to render assistance after the above date, except by calling at the office of the Collector of Internal Revenue, at St. Paul, taxpayers are urged to interview the deputy. About half of the income tax returns received at the Collector's office are prepared incorrectly and the taxpayers are not receiving the proper credits which are provided for in the law."

FURTHER STEPS IN IN-

(By United Press)

Jersey City, N. J., Jan. 22.—The jury in the trial of 10 policemen and two civilians charged with rum running along the docks of Weehawken reported disagreement today.

The jury stood for 15 hours 9 to 3 for conviction.

The jury retired yesterday at 3:10 p. m. and was locked up all night in the jury room after eight hours of fruitless deliberation.

This development probably means the men indicted will not be placed on trial again by the Hudson county prosecutor but will be turned over to the federal authorities.

Of almost equal interest to the jurors' inability to settle on a verdict was the announcement of Prosecutor Milton that United States Senator Edward I. St. Paul, Jan. 22.—Two drug store bandits were sentenced to serve from five to 40 years each in the state penitentiary today.

Jack Rentz, 32, leader of the "Hudson Coach" bandit gang, changed his plea to guilty today and was sentenced by Judge J. C. Michael. He asked the court to sentence him to Stillwater and give him a recommendation so that he might get through his "stretch" there and go back to Joliet, where he "owes" the Illinois penitentiary eight years.

Arthur Anderson, the "Hild bandit," was given a similar sentence to that of Rentz when he pleaded guilty before the same court.

FRENZIED FINANCE
OF YOUNG TURMAN
DISTURBS N. Y.YOUNG MAN FORGED NOTES, IT IS CHARGED, FOR OVER A
MILLIONMOST AMAZING STORY HE EVER HEARD, SAYS DISTRICT
ATTORNEY

(By United Press)

New York, Jan. 22.—Continuing the investigation of the frenzied finance through which 27-year-old Moe Turman came to grief after forging notes for more than $1,300,000, Assistant District Attorney Ferdinand Pecora today set about securing a full list of the victims of the youth's mad business bubble.

"It is the most amazing story I have ever heard," Pecora said as he went deeper into the "borrow from Peter to pay Paul" plan that through 10 years ran an original debt of $100 past the million mark.

Turman yesterday was indicted on a charge of second degree forgery and admitted to $5,000 bail at the suggestion of counsel for some of the plaintiffs, because he voluntarily returned from Kansas City to help straighten out the tangle. The forgeries of names of prominent businessmen may aggregate $2,000,000. It is not known as yet whether other indictments will be returned against him.

Because Turman paid high rates of interest on money he borrowed—sometimes as high as 300 per cent—the net loss to his investors is believed may be but $400,000.

Turman himself says he has but a $10,000 bank account and that all he got of the hundreds of thousands passing through his hands was $20,000, most of which he gave to charitable and philanthropic institutions.

Editor MacMahon said. "We have done the best we could. Perhaps a different verdict could be obtained if the case were retried before a federal jury."

Washington advices, however, indicated the attorney-general's office favors a new trial in the county courts.

The jury announced its inability to reach a verdict shortly after 10 a. m. It had deliberated in the case since 3:10 p. m. yesterday and stood 9 for conviction and three for acquittal.

GOVERNOR IN STAND ON AUTO
TRANSPORTATIONFAVORS GROSS EARNINGS TAX
ON MOTOR VEHICLES SO
ENGAGEDAS WELL AS ON STEAM AND ELECTRIC HAUL-
AGE

(By United Press)

St. Paul, Jan. 22.—Governor Christianson favors a gross earnings tax on motor vehicle transportation as well as steam and electric transportation.

He made this known at the annual banquet of the St. Paul Transportation club last night.

As long as motor buses compete with railroads and both passenger and freight hauls it is only fair that they should be required to come under the same regulations, he said.

A measure embodying his ideas is expected to be introduced in the legislature soon.

Several new bills were ready for introduction today when the house met at 2 o'clock this afternoon.

Among them was one which would collect 25 instead of 10 per cent of the receipts from boxing shows for the state tuberculosis fund.

Committee meetings were held this morning. Bills on markets, railroads, corporations, education, soldier's home, labor and public buildings were to be recommended for passage.

CHAPMAN BACK TO FEDERAL PRISONNOTORIOUS DESPERADO AND JAIL BREAKER AGAIN AT ATLANTA

(By United Press)

Atlanta, Ga., Jan. 22. — Gerald Chapman, notorious desperado and jail breaker, was returned to federal prison here today.

Chapman arrived at the union station on a regular passenger train in custody of two guards. Two deputy wardens in an automobile met the party and they were whisked away to the penitentiary.

Chapman's arrival at the station was a surprise, as it had been reported the party would leave the train at a point outside Atlanta and then go to the prison.

The transfer from the train to the prison automobile was not even noticed by hundreds of persons who lined the station platform.

The prisoner was heavily chained and handcuffed and appeared meek and subdued in the latest role of his notorious career. After arriving at the prison he was placed in an ordinary cell and the handcuffs and chains removed.

INCOME TAX
EXPERT TO AID
IN MAKING REPORTS

"Owing to the fact that there have been several changes in the Revenue Act of 1924, taxpayers will need assistance in the preparation of their income tax returns. These returns must be filed with the Collector of Internal Revenue on or before March 15th, 1925, and in order that the proper assistance may be given, Deputy Collector George Meekes will be at Brainerd from February 10th to February 13th, inclusive. As it will be difficult to render assistance after the above date, except by calling at the office of the Collector of Internal Revenue, at St. Paul, taxpayers are urged to interview the deputy. About half of the income tax returns received at the Collector's office are prepared incorrectly and the taxpayers are not receiving the proper credits which are provided for in the law."

PALESTINE IS SEEN
AS JEWISH HOMELAND
BY ZIONIST LEADER

St. Paul, Jan. 22.—Palestine is destined to be the center of Jewish life.

The Jews in the Holy Land, dominated by a force that is urging them to rebuild that land, are quickening this prediction into realization, Louis Lipsky, head of the Zionist organization in America, declared at a banquet given by the St. Paul chapter at the Aleph Beth club, Garrick building.

Nearly 200 Jews, most of them members of the St. Paul chapter of the Zionist organization, attended the banquet and pledged their moral support to the restoration of Palestine as the Jewish homeland.

"The Zionist movement in Europe as well as the United States is growing rapidly and the time is not far distant when Palestine, aided by the prevailing sentiment in these countries, will be the center of Jewish life," the speaker said.

LAKES WILL DRAW
CASH FROM EASTTEN THOUSAND LAKES ASSOCIATION
PREDICTS INCREASED
TOURIST REVENUE

St. Paul, Jan. 22.—There will be a lot of eastern money spent in Minnesota and other western states during the coming summer, according to H. C. Hotelling, secretary of the Ten Thousand Lakes association, who has returned from a trip to the east in the interests of the National Editorial association, of which also he is secretary.

While attending a meeting of the Virginia Press association at Charlottesville, Va., Mr. Hotelling was present at a session devoted to arranging a campaign for the establishment of a "national park in the east" in the southern Appalachian park and Blue Ridge area.

During this session it was pointed out that this park would be of easy access to 40,000,000 persons, and the Virginians are saving neither energy nor money to bring about the establishment of the park and directing tourist business to that part of the country.

Business conditions throughout the east are improving, according to Mr. Hotelling, and there will be lots of money spent by tourists during the coming summer. There has been a marked increase at the winter resorts as the result of returning prosperity, and by summer time the tourist traffic to the north will be even greater than the winter traffic to the south.

Through the Ten Thousand Lakes association, Minnesota is planning an extensive advertising campaign, and by the time inquiries are received for information, this organization will have an abundance of attractive literature telling of the advantages of Minnesota as the place to spend a summer vacation.

Few people of the state of Minnesota realize the great extent of the tourist business, which has grown rapidly in the last few years, and which last year reached the proportions of $40,000,000, according to the report of the Ten Thousand Lakes association, recently compiled by that organization.

Of all the states of the Union, none offer more attractive summer advantages than Minnesota, Mr. Hotelling says. One of the outstanding features that appeals to the tourist is the splendid road system maintained here, and the fact that it is possible to travel to practically any point in the state over good roads. The hotel accommodations of Minnesota are also superior to the accommodations found in many other states, while good garage service is another feature that appeals.

British Passport Cost
Cut to Nominal Fee

London.—The expenses and exasperations of postwar travel with passports are gradually being reduced for everybody except Americans.

Beginning December 1, British subjects for only 7s 6d, can obtain passports valid for five years from the date of issue.

No visas at all will be required for visiting most of the continental countries, to which the English go in large numbers. The Briton simply puts his $1.75 passport in his pocket and crosses the channel. For an extra 5s, he can have his passports extended to ten years.

His lot is a lucky one compared to that of the American traveling abroad. First of all, the American must pay his own government $10 to get a passport which expires in 12 months and cannot be extended for a period longer than two years from the date of issue. Then for each country he visits, except Switzerland and Belgium, he must pay another $10 for a visa.

The American is merely an innocent bystander suffering from a little game of retaliation against his government. When the United States began charging $10 for visas to visit America, foreign nations, instead of turning the other cheek, gave the Yankee wallet a wallop by charging Americans $10 each to cross their frequent frontiers.

As not infrequently happens, Europe comes out ahead in this little game.

4 ACTS VAUDEVILLE

Friday Program at New Park Carries Such Bill Plus Special Picture

On Friday of this week the New Park will present four big vaudeville acts and a special picture "The City That Never Sleeps" with Ricardo Cortez and Kathlyn Williams. A short description of the acts to be presented follows:

"The Tangerine Revue" an act with six people is the head liner on this week's bill. In the production of the Tangerine Revue, which is one of the most gorgeously staged, beautifully costumed and cleverest offerings of the season. Tom Campbell the producer, has chosen an aggregation of artists each a leader in the vaudeville and musical comedy field. Jimmy Sargent and Helen Wright's nonsensical "thising" and "thatting" evokes a "Laugh a Line" mirth, worthy, indeed to be so called. Their harmony singing is of equal merit. Miss Loletta Armand is regarded as exquisite and delightful a dancer as there is on any stage today. Her grace and versatility, together with the admirable support given her by Honore de Boutellier class this team as one of the greatest that France has lost to America's gain. While musically the same degree of distinction is noticeable through the appearance of Miss Marvella Armand, the well known French cello soloist, and Howard Russell at the piano.

Wild and Sedalia in "Here, There and Everywhere." Wild and Sedalia are a well matched pair of entertaining artists. Their offering bears all the ear-marks of class ability, and versatility. Al Wild, the male member of this excellent combination of talent is a fat, jovial, rollicking sort of momus, who never fails to bring many laughs from his audience. Miss Sedalia, his pretty partner is a good foil for him.

Sullivan and Mack in "Opera to Jazz." Sullivan and Mack are a duo of high class artists presenting a novelty musical act. Mr. Sullivan is the inventor of the "Saxaphobia." It is like a xylophone but has the tonal qualities of a saxophone. Their offering is clean and refined and will please the most fastidious.

Orlando in a comedy novelty "Did You Notice It." Orlando is a good looking young chap possessing unusual ability as a juggler. He is an expert in his line, and his dexterity in juggling boxes, lamps, etc., will entertain any audience.

RADIO IS CALLED

MIRACLE OF AGE

MODERN APPLIANCES BOOST EDUCATION, MUSIC; IS STILL IN INFANCY

"Those good old days" in radio were not always so good after all.

Every radio fan who was in on the new art in its infancy will always remember with a vividness and joy akin to affection his experiments and struggles in those early days, and his delight when he overcame the difficulties under which he worked and got results with his primitive set.

But if you were one of those early fans, of course you remember how your house was strewn with huge coils, switchboards and other apparatus, and how crude your set looked. You will never forget, however, the thrill when you brought in something, even if it was only the time signals at Arlington on an earphone.

Loud speakers, amplification without distortion, distance reception, scores of powerful broadcasting stations, daily programs that filled two or three columns of the newspapers—all of these then meant nothing in your young life. Enthusiastic as you were about radio, you had not yet dreamed how the new utility would permeate and influence almost every phase of life. Now the general public is beginning to realize how rapidly and how patently radio is affecting education, music, entertainment, sports, politics and other spheres of modern life. But way back there in the beginning, who dreamed of the ramifications of radio? Honestly, did you ever expect then to hear a world's series over radio?

And yet what a short few years ago it was when radio was in its beginning stages everywhere. Its rush into every-day life is one of the miracles of the age.

Imagine how surprised and thrilled you would have been in those old days—way back in 1918 and 1919—to look at one of the more modern sets bringing in stations within 1,000-mile radius loud and clear so that a whole roomful of people could hear as well, and better, than you could then with the earphones glued to your ears. What a contrast to the huge tuning coils and crude condensers. In those days, your apparatus covered a whole big table and spilled over on the floor and surrounding furniture.

Your personal experience has been duplicated by the manufacturer as well. The new art is so new, even yet, that the "old-timers" in the manufacturing side, as well as the receiving side of the game, are still youngsters.—Duluth Herald.

A man leaning over the parapet of a bridge looked so glum that a kindly pedestrian stopped to make sure the gloomy one was not contemplating suicide.

"No, it's this way," explained the latter. "I like to come here once in a while to rest my face. I get tired of smiling all day at the store and I don't think I ought to be grouchy at home."

Banking for the People

COPYRIGHT 1924 HARVEY BLODGETT

Who Is a Bank?

A BANK is in reality three groups of human beings welded into a very necessary and useful public utility, for the purpose of rendering a beneficial service to the whole people.

The first group are every day Americans—neighbors, so to speak—engaged in numerous lines of business. They have had the enterprise and the courage to contribute from their accumulations to the funds which form the bank's capital. Their object is the same as that which prompts any one to take a business risk and embark in a business—to make their saved capital earn legitimate profits.

The second group is that very large body of citizens from high and lowly walks of life who deposit their precious funds in the bank for safety, convenience and profit. Safety, because funds about the home, in pockets, or even about business institutions are in constant danger. Convenience, because the bank check renders the easiest method for transmitting funds. Profit, because in the case of savings, interest is paid on deposits—enough, if left long enough, to double amounts originally set aside.

The third group is composed of directors, officers and working staff. The stockholders who own the bank's capital elect directors from their number. These directors select managing officers, who are responsible to the board. The officers choose and supervise the working staff.

A bank is not composed of brick, steel and concrete, with wood or marble fixtures and metal grills with piles of money behind them. The human element predominates here, as in every successful business enterprise.

Banking is not a monopoly. When the need of a bank exists in any community there is nothing to prevent persons with proper qualifications—character, capital and experience—organizing one in conformity with the law. To say that the thirty thousand or more American banks are controlled by any invisible government or influences would be as absurd as to say that the general stores or the shoe shops are similarly controlled. For these banks belong to the plain, enterprising citizens of their home communities who contribute their capital, and who have in their own hands their choice of management.

J. M. RAPELJE

THREE score years ago a 10-year-old youth left home to make his way in the world. Deprived of parental assistance, without the advantages of an education he started out to make good. His only resource was a fighting determination, says the St. Paul Daily News editorially. We quote the editorial because he was well known in St. Paul and the opinion of him there is shared by his legion of friends along the line and territory of the Northern Pacific railway company.

At the age of 68, grown to grizzled manhood, that youth died, the head of the operating department of 8,000 miles of railroad. He was J. M. Rapelje, vice president of the Northern Pacific.

Starting at the bottom rung of the ladder, he climbed first to the position of brakeman, then to that of engineer, conductor, trainmaster, superintendent, general manager and finally to the ladder's topmost rung, that of vice president. With little schooling, with no "pull" he gained the goal of his profession.

Mr. Rapelje's secret of success was hard work and conscientious application of duty. He hated the laggard, the professional clock watcher. He died with the reputation of being one of the most efficient operating men in railroad circles. During the last year he succeeded in reducing operating expenses to such an extent that, even with reduced revenues, his company was able to set a high mark in net earnings.

But this was not his greatest accomplishment. With his intense knowledge of men, his keen insight into their natures and his whole-hearted kindness, he won their love and admiration. To 25,000 employees he was known as "Jack." His position, in his organization and in the hearts of his employees, will be hard to fill.

PRAISE FOR BRAINERD TEAM

THE Bemidji Daily Pioneer, in its comment on the recent Brainerd-Bemidji high school basketball game, paid tributes to Brainerd players and Brainerd fans.

"This was the first defeat of the season for Coach Krueger's Brainerd team, a team which is certain to make things interesting for all teams in its own district this year. This is Coach Krueger's first year at Brainerd and the only veteran on the team is Engbretson, forward. He has developed a strong team for a new organization and the prospects are that the team will go a long way in its own district and might even take the district honors.

"That Brainerd fans are heart and soul behind their high school basketball team was evidenced by the exceptionally large attendance of Brainerd fans at the game. Train accommodations for such a visit are exceptionally good for the Brainerd fans and every time that the team plays here it is accompanied by a large delegation of dyed-in-the-wool fans. Although losing 15 to 13 in a last minute rally, Brainerd fans have every reason to feel proud of their team, despite the fact that it is composed of practically all new players."

SAFEGUARD YOUR CHECKS

"SAFEGUARD your checks as you would your money," is the admonition recently issued by the American Bankers' Association in connection with their campaign to induce greater care on the part of writers of checks to frustrate forgery.

And their warning is well advised and is commented on by the Christian Science Monitor. About 95 per cent of the business of the United States is now transacted by the use of checks and other credit instruments.

Here are a few of the don'ts to which the association is urging public attention: Don't write in pencil, erase or correct, leave spaces, sign blank checks, cash checks without verifying the indorsements. And after all they really amount to just one rule: Exercise good common sense. But so many times, unfortunately, this quality is lacking in the very quarters where one would expect to find the most of it.

CHAMBER OF COMMERCE PRAISED

IN the comment headed "Out Among the Neighbors," the Duluth Herald of January 19, says:

"The Brainerd Chamber of Commerce held its annual meeting last week and the reports of the work accomplished during the year indicate that President F. H. Gruenhagen is not only an enthusiastic booster himself, but that he knows how to select committees with energy and ability, who are big enough to devote some of their time to making their home town a better and more interesting place in which to live.

"Brainerd is the center of a district rich in resources and no city in North Central Minnesota has the right to look forward to a brighter future."

WHO IS TO BLAME?

Who is to blame if, after the municipal elections, Brainerd finds itself with municipal officers and school board members who do not represent the community? Shall we wait until Tom, Dick and Harry shall file for the positions, or shall men and women awake to our city's interest, use their influence to secure capable representative persons to file for these offices?

If all wait for the "other fellow" to take the initiative, then no complaint is in order if these persons elected are not the most capable.

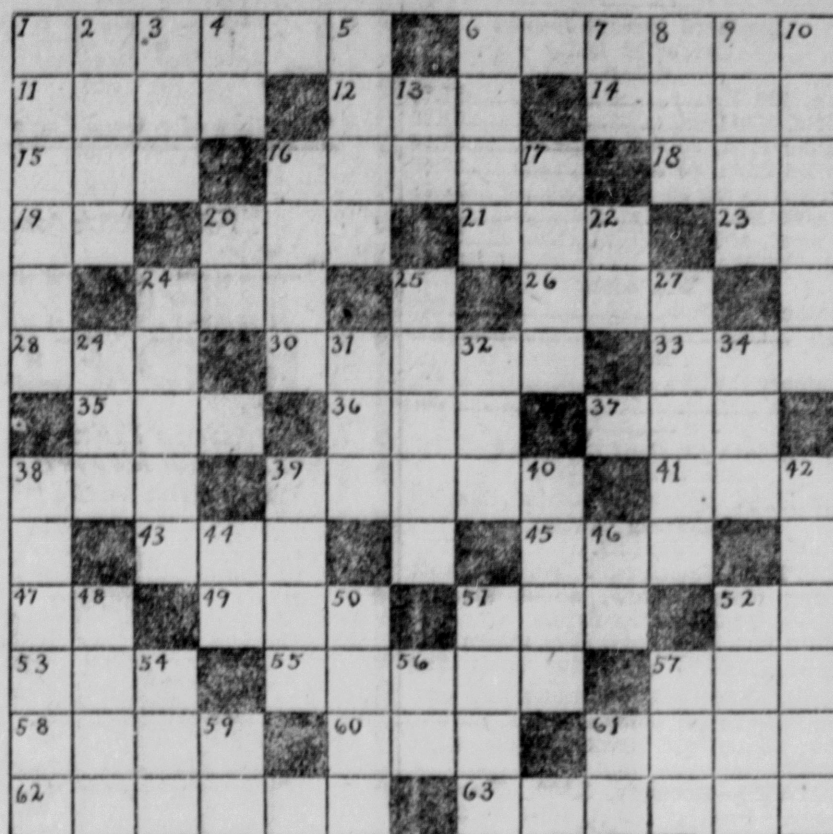

Now is the time to do the work which will insure Brainerd's development. If it is not your problem, whose is it?

FAVORS GRASSHOPPER INSPECTOR

IN line with the bee inspector appointed last legislature, comes Representative F. A. Green of Marshall county, with a bill to pay $4 a day to men who would hunt grasshoppers.

His proposal is that the legislature shall create the office of grasshopper catcher. While out after the 'hoppers, the suggestion is made that they can also knock over chinchbugs and any other destructive insects encountered. The grasshopper exterminator will get positions in any county where county commissioners vote to give the opportunity for going into this line of work.

Grows 500,000 Grains From One Wheat Seed

Paris.—Making 500,000 grains of wheat grow from one in a year and a half was cited in the dusty debate of the chamber of deputies on agriculture recently as a laboratory accomplishment, rather putting in the shade the old adage about making two leaves grow where one grew before.

This scientific achievement was used by Deputy Compro-Moral to show how valuable science could be to the farmer.

France has a back-to-the-farm movement. Before the war more than half the population was rural. It was shown by various speakers, and now only a third of the people cultivate the soil. And meantime the wheat shortage is worrying economists and politicians, for the reason that bread, the standard of the Frenchman for the cost of living, goes up in price constantly.

In comparing practice with possibility, M. Compro-Moral said the farmer, on an average, grew only 25 grains of wheat from one.

Water Inside Crystal

Oliver Farrington, curator of the Field museum in Chicago, brought from South America a piece of crystal quartz containing a small amount of perfectly clear water which can be seen plainly inside the crystal. According to geologists, this water may have been in this crystal for 10,000,000 or 100,000,000 years. The crystal belongs to the Archenn age which existed hundreds of millions of years ago.

New Discovery Limbers Up Stiff, Sore, Swollen Joints

jump into your sportiest clothes and walk briskly down the street just to show the neighbors that you are not as old as they think you are."

Joint-Ease they call this wonder working substance, for the reason that when ordinary remedies fail to limber up the stiff, inflamed rheumatic joint, or reduce the swelling, Joint-Ease succeeds.

It's a good name for a good, clean penetrating prescription that in just a few months has proven to a multitude of people that lame, swollen, distorted joints can speedily have the kinks taken out of them and work as smoothly as ever.

But Joint-Ease is for bothersome joints, whether in knee, ankle, arch, hip, shoulder, spine or finger, and for that purpose its sale at 60 cents a tube is immense.

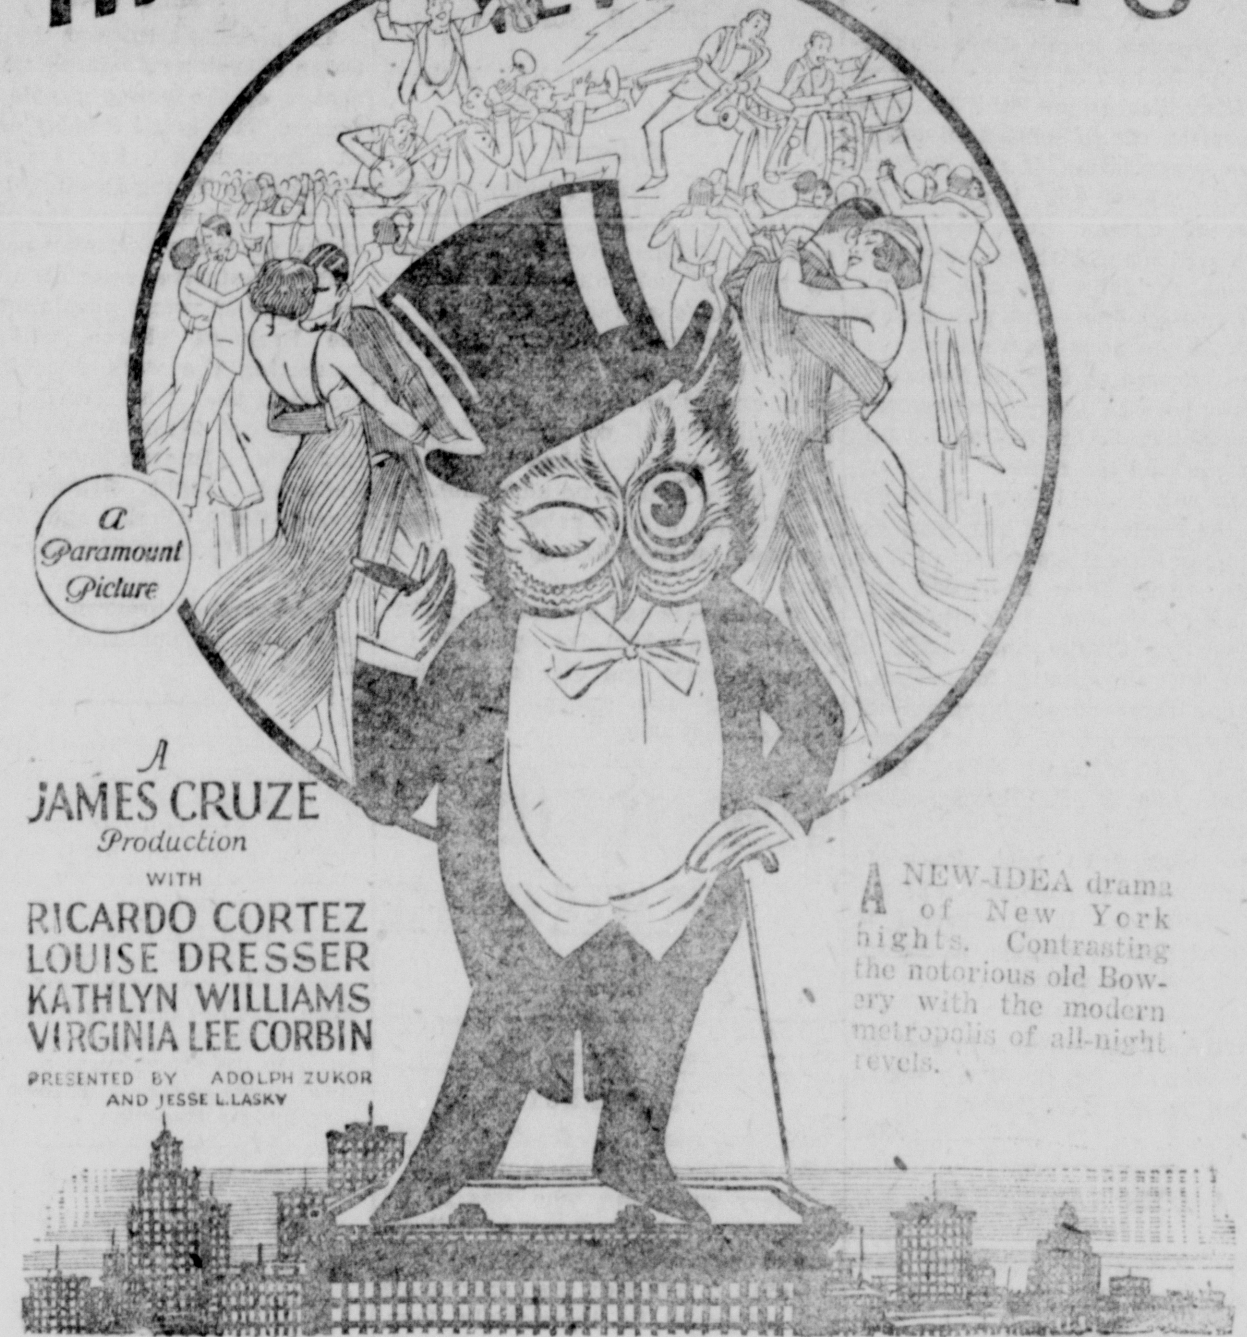

Johnson's Pharmacy and Economy Drug Co. have a big supply of it and druggists everywhere report a big demand.

Always remember, when Joint-Ease gets in joint agony gets out—quick.

WCCO NEW STUDIOS TO BE MOST MODERN

ONE TO BE BUILT FOR BANDS, ORCHESTRA AND CHORUSES

SMALLER ONE TO HOUSE SPEAK-ERS AND SMALL GROUPS

Minneapolis, Jan. 22.—Construction of a building has begun on top of the new Nicollet Hotel to house the new broadcasting studio for the Gold Medal Station, St. Paul-Minneapolis WCCO. Washburn Crosby Co., owners of the station, announced that this studio will be completed late in February, simultaneously with the completion of the new 5,000-watt superpower broadcasting station which is being constructed 18 miles northwest of St. Paul and Minneapolis.

Minneapolis executive offices of WCCO will be opened at the same time on the twelfth floor of the new Nicollet.

A one story building, constructed on the roof of the Nicollet Hotel between the penthouses and on its two wings, will be used to house the studios, and studios themselves will be of a design unusual among American broadcasting stations.

Similar studios are to be installed soon at a new location in St. Paul, officers announced, in a place to be selected by Foster Hannaford, St. Paul member of the station's board of control.

Holsbird & Roche, architects who drew the plans for the Nicollet Hotel, also drew plans for the special structure which will house the new studio, and C. F. Haglin & Sons company, who built the hotel, also will construct the studio. It will be 35 by 60 feet, fronting on Washington Ave.

The building will include a large studio, 30 by 35 feet, from which bands, choruses and other large organizations will broadcast; a smaller studio, 16 feet square, for speakers and small groups; a reception room, announcer's room and operator's room. One side of the studios will be all of glass, so that visitors may watch the process of broadcasting, as will partitions between the studios and the operator's and announcer's rooms, while a promenade will run along one side of the large studio. This is a feature never used before, officers said.

Studios will be entirely soundproof and literally will be "hung in the air." They will be built on a three inch bed of cork, with double walls throughout and felt padding between the walls, while the ceiling will be suspended four feet below the roof and the floor will be separated from the hotel proper by a four foot "dead air" space.

Ceiling and walls, extending downward for four feet, will be insulated with felt, covered with strips of cloth, and the remaining ten feet of the walls will be covered with heavy curtains. Windows will consist of double panels of glass, set in felt. Studios will be ventilated by a noiseless artificial ventilation system.

The floor space will be charted, with each space numbered. Broadcasters will be tested, and floor space numbers assigned according to the number of their voice.

Entrance to the studios will be gained by a stairway from the 12th floor corridor. An electric hoist has been installed and will be used to lift three 2½ ton steel girders, pianos for the new studios, and other material and equipment.

"It is gratifying to announce the completion of negotiations whereby the community hotel will cooperate with the community broadcasting station in carrying better radio service to the Northwest," A. E. Zonne, president of the Nicollet Hotel Company, Inc., said in commenting on the location of the studios. "We feel that the elaborate preparations for these studios will make them an added attraction in Minneapolis."

Cost of erecting the Minneapolis and St. Paul studios will be met by the Washburn Crosby company, under their agreement with the Minneapolis Civic and Commerce Association and St. Paul Association, by which Minneapolis business men pledged $20,000 annually for three years, and St. Paul firms $20,000 annually toward an annual operating budget of $100,000.

The Last Day

By PHILIP E. STEVENSON

(© by Western Newspaper Union.)

WHEN Yeng-See, the new galley cook, came aboard the Shansi Maru at San Francisco, his oriental intelligence told him that he had joined an exceptionally erratic crowd of men. His eastern calm had become used to the antics common to white men, but, carried to lengths reached by Nansen the bos'n, Clark the radio man, and Araqui, one of the seamen, the amusement involved was no longer intelligible to Yeng-See.

One day, Yeng-See squatted against the deckhouse beside the galley door. Andy, the Scotch quartermaster, was beside him, talking, as he loved to do, about China and the eastern view of life.

Their casual, lazy talk—the best kind of talk in the world—was broken into by Clark and Araqui with news.

"Looker, Yank!"—they called him Yank because he disdained to use the pidgin English, and spoke almost like an American—"that poor ham-an'-egger Gillo wants to make a bet with yer."

"Yes?" Yeng-See knew they were at one of their eccentric jests again. "He bets you'll walk out this here galley door between one and three in the morning."

"Those times," said Yeng, the practical, "I sleep."

"Si! Yeh! Araqui broke in, excitedly. "Uno! You sleep. Then you walk out bet—ten, no, twent' daller gold!"

"I don't have twenty dollar," protested Yeng.

"Wait," broke in Andy, spitting over the side. "What day, Clark?"

"Tomorrow— Here, we'll write it all down."

Andy smiled. While the others were gone, busy with the document, he took Yeng-See by the arm.

"How would you like four quid, Yank? Dollars are good money these days. Blimey!"

Yeng thought that, on the whole, he would like them.

There was some whispered argument between them before the others, their forces greatly augmented, returned to read their agreement, as follows:

"Gillo here now, and Yeng, the cook, agree to bet. Gillo bets Yeng walks out his galley door between one and three in the morning. Yeng bets he don't. Stakes $20 gold."

"Put in the date," said Andy, who was leaning over the side and seemed not to listen. "And Yank stakes his jade amulet instead o' cash against the twenty."

When the cook made coffee for the mid-watch that night he remembered Andy's warning to be below again before one o'clock. He wondered somewhat, with cosmic indifference, at the trivial things that white men thought important; but not even the thought of the possible loss of his precious amulet disturbed his yellow slumber, and half-past five found him again in the galley, serene overlord of the crowded range.

A clatter of shoes in the companion ladder heralded the appearance on deck of Nansen, Clark, Araqui, Gillo and others.

"Yank! Comeer—come, look—see! Yank! Oh, Yank, come quick!"

There they all were, taking excessive interest in some trifle over the side.

"Out here, Yank. Can't see nothin' where you are."

Yeng stepped out—and was met by a blast of amused roaring.

"Gillo wins—outdoor—one—three—amulet—morning—pay up now—tough, Yank—look!"

Yeng was bewildered. They all talked at once, pointing to the jambs of the galley door, plucking his sleeve, demanded his amulet, his treasure.

Clark grinned sheepishly. "Gillo wins 'e bet," he said.

"How's that? Yank was in bed between one and three this morning."

Andy's eyes sparkled. "Well, looker." Clark pointed to each door-jamb in succession. On one was scratched faintly a figure 1, on the other a figure 3. "Yank walked out this door seven 1 an' 3, in 'e mornin', didn't he? Don't Gillo win? H—!"

The suppressed wrath of the crew burst its bonds at the disclosure of this ruse.

"Got the agreement handy?" asked Andy. It was passed to him. "I thought so. Gillo, pay Yank twenty dollars gold—pronto! Says, 'In the morning o' July 16, 1923,' don't it, bos'n?"

"Yas-s."

"But today's the seventeenth."

"Nex, Andy. Yesterday bane fifteenth."

"Right. But maybe you forgot! We crossed the bloody International Date line after midnight last night. So, sailing westerly, we skip a day when we pass the line. The sixteenth lasted only from midnight to about twelve forty this morning when we crossed the old line and changed the date to the seventeenth. It's all in the log. But, blimey, bos'n, what kind o' sailor-man are you? Ought to've know that. And when I saw you bums putting up a skin game on Yank 'ere, I let you ride—and split! Hurr you any?"

Yeng had long since retired to resume his stirring. He knew that Andy had turned some trick on the crew and that twenty dollars now jingled in his pockets; but how, or why—he could not puzzle out. White men concerned themselves with such inexplicable trifles. . . . It was quite a waste of time.

Roman Chair of State

The curule chair was a chair of state, equivalent to a throne, in use among the early Romans. The chair was usually ornamented with ivory or gold, had curved legs, but no back, and could be folded as a camp stool is folded. It was used by curule magistrates, dictators, consuls, praetors and curule aediles on formal occasions. The right to sit in the presence of others was one of the precious privileges of certain officers.

Removing Tattoo Marks

Although tattoo marks generally are asserted to be indelible if produced by the insertion of some carbonaceous matter, it is said they will disappear if first well rubbed with a saline of pure acetic acid and lard, then with a solution of potash and finally with a solution of hydrochloric acid. It would be advisable to consult a skin specialist.

GRAND DUKE BORIS LIVES UP TO REPUTATION

YANKEES FIGHT AT GAY PARTY THAT HE GIVES

DUKE IS REPORTED TO TRAVEL VERY MOD- ESTLY

New York, Jan. 22.—If the visit of the Grand Duke Boris of Russia to this country keeps up the pace at which it started his exploits of 1902 may be eclipsed.

Even before the voyage from Paris was half completed, the duke was witness to as snappy a barroom brawl as ever enlivened the good old days when he was Broadway's free spending celebrity.

The duke, accompanied by his wife and mother-in-law, the latter, incidentally, was required by Boris to travel second class, arrived in New York aboard the White Star liner Olympic.

Although he was reputed to have sent $1,000,000 worth of francs to this country, the duke, who is a cousin of the late czar, occupied a modest, first-class cabin stateroom and said economy prompted him to bring his mother-in-law in the second cabin. It was not like his voyage of 1902, when his suite occupied seven palatial apartments aboard their steamer. Nor is the duke the slender, hollow-eyed, sensation-craving youth who was the lion of the hour in early days of the century. The duke is tamer now, a slightly bald, breezy citizen going on 50.

Boris was dressed unpretentiously in a blue serge suit, a brown sweater and a green hat and wore on his wrist "a slave bracelet," of fine gold links. And, despite his protestations of economy, he expressed the hope of having a "gay old time."

Something of the sort started a party while the Olympic was on the high seas last Tuesday night, Jan. 13, New Year's day for Russians, so, of course, there had to be a party.

The duke passed his hand over his eyes and mopped his brow as he recalled the affair.

"No guns, thank God," he murmured piously. "Just two American gentlemen with fists."

The Olympic had not reached the 12-mile limit. Toasts were drunk to Boris, to Russia, to New Year's Day, and everything was going merrily, until someone proposed a toast to Willie Herrigan, a popular young actor and member of the Friars' club.

A gentleman named Gross saw no reason for rising. His knees were tired, it seemed, with getting up and sitting down again for so many toasts.

Herrigan remonstrated. Toasts were toasts, and he saw no reason for the slight. He may see a better one now, but with only one eye, for the other is concealed behind a black patch. Mr. Gross is sporting what is known as a "shiner," and is very touchy over the affair.

A census-taking among those in the party indicated Gross had broken a champagne bottle over Herrigan's head.

Well, with this for a start, Boris said his visit promised to be a lively one. That it will not be launched on the extravagant scale of his previous appearance here was evident from the size of his staff—one secretary, Count Nicholas.

When the duke was in good traveling form, a quarter of a century ago, he had a royal entourage requiring a special train. This time there is just the duke and duchess, who is a pretty, vivacious little woman, about 25, her mother, her niece and the count.

New York, inured to free spenders and high fliers, whether they be dukes from Russia or oilmen from Texas, will nevertheless keep an eye on Boris.

Drinking champagne from chorus girls' slippers was his favorite indoor sport back in 1902.

Harry Carey's Ranch in "Tiger Thompson"

The restrictions imposed on moving livestock by the spread of the hoof and mouth disease had no effect on the production of "Tiger Thompson," Harry Carey's third Hunt Stromberg production playing at the Lyceum Theatre Saturday only.

Although this picture called for a great deal of location work, such scenes were filmed on Carey's ranch near Saugus, Cal., and the horses and cattle used in the picture were from the Carey range.

LOST RUM RUNNER WAS BUILT FOR SPAIN'S KING

Guilia, Sunk Off Coast of California, Had Romantic Career During Forty Years.

San Pedro, Cal.—With the sinking of the rum ship Guilia off the coast of northern California recently, it was revealed here that the vessel had a history of romance and adventure and was said once to have been owned by a king of Spain. Here is her history as told on "the beach":

When built 40 years ago for the Spanish king, the graceful clipper yacht, equipped with gold fittings and priceless draperies, was the envy of European royalty.

From the service of the king the vessel passed to that of an English merchant prince, then successively to war service, to a band of British adventurers who called her the Frontiersman, and finally, after the adventures were bankrupt at San Pedro, into the liquor trade. She was not wanted by the legitimate lines of shipping, because she was a coal-burning vessel on an oil-burning coast.

Her decks equipped with machine guns to keep away robbers, she sailed for Havana under the new name of Guilia. Returning from Cuba, the Guilia ran out of fuel off the west coast of Mexico. Her cabin was torn down and fed to the boiler fires and, as a last resort, part of her rum cargo was fed to the flames a bottle at a time.

At Ensenada, Lower California, 35 tons of coal were obtained, and the crew prayed that this fuel would take them to Vancouver. But her progress was retarded by a storm and again the Guilia ran out of coal. She foundered at sea, a forbidden visitor to the nearby California shores which alone could give her aid.

The one-time royal clipper yacht went to the bottom, an abandoned rum runner, scuttled by her crew, reports say. All the members of the crew were rescued by a passing ship and brought to San Francisco.

Helium and Hydrogen

The bureau of standards says helium will lift 0.003 pounds per cubic foot under ordinary conditions. Hydrogen will lift 0.071 pounds per cubic foot. If air and gas are at the same pressure, reduction of pressure causes a proportional reduction of lift. Increase of pressure on the gas decreases the lift.

Easy Way to Break Severest Cough

No matter how long you have had a persistent, weakening cough—no matter how many remedies you have tried without success—you can usually get relief instantly, and often relieve the entire cough condition in 24 hours, by a very simple method. The method is based on a remarkable prescription known as Dr. King's New Discovery for Coughs. You simply take one teaspoonful and hold it in your throat for 15 or 20 seconds before swallowing it, without following with water. The prescription has a double action. It not only soothes and heals soreness and irritation, but it quickly loosens and removes the phlegm and congestion which are the direct cause of the coughing. The prompt relief seems almost magical, and the quickness with which the whole cough condition disappears is often simply amazing. There is nothing better for coughs, chest colds, bronchitis, bronchial asthma, hoarseness, and almost every throat irritation. Economical, too, as the dose is only one teaspoonful. Ricardo Cortez, Virginia Lee Corbin and Louise Dresser in a scene from James Cruze's Paramount Picture "The City That Never Sleeps"

Paramount Makes Another "Natural-Color" Picture

Another photoplay in natural colors has been made at the Paramount studio in Hollywood.

And on the screen it will be in the familiar black and white!

The picture is "The City That Never Sleeps," the new James Cruze production, and in it Cruze tried an experiment which has proved extremely successful.

Instead of building his sets in the variety of colors and shades which are commonly used in motion picture architecture, Cruze had the sets painted black and white, and shades of gray—the colors and shades which the film makes of all the brighter, gaudier colors.

The result is striking. In the place of a rather dirty gray which some colors photograph, the shades of colorings in the sets for "The City That Never Sleeps" are distinct and even in tone.

An entire cabaret was built and painted in black and white. The photographic result amazed even Cruze, who had expected something out of the ordinary. Hangings and furniture in homes used in the production were selected in black and shades of gray, with astonishing results.

"The City That Never Sleeps" with a great cast playing in support of the principals, is showing at the New Park tonight and Friday.

Scene from "HIS HOUR" Elinor Glyn's latest love story, "His Hour," which comes to the Lyceum Sunday, has proven to be one of the finest productions of the year.

An Essay Contest Conducted on Sacred and Profane Love

This subject was given as the topic to be written about in an essay contest conducted by a college periodical. The prize-winning contribution ran as follows:

"An art model, shipwrecked on a desert island, with a divinity student and a bootlegger."

Which reminds us that the desert island formula was invented by an author who was trying to get his characters off to some secluded spot where they might work out their dramatic destiny in peace, far from the world and its interruptions. He might have gotten the same effect by discovering them snowbound in the wilds of Manitoba, or, as in Phil Goldstone's current production "The Other Kind of Love," showing at the Lyceum tonight and Friday, they might have been the family who live on an isolated farm and think they are seeing the world when they go to town once a month.

4 Vaudeville Acts at New Park on Friday

The New Park in accordance with their regular schedule, will present four vaudeville acts and a "special" picture on Friday at popular prices.

GRAND DUKE BORIS LIVES UP TO REPUTATION

YANKEES FIGHT AT GAY PARTY THAT HE GIVES

DUKE IS REPORTED TO TRAVEL VERY MOD- ESTLY

New York, Jan. 22.—If the visit of the Grand Duke Boris of Russia to this country keeps up the pace at which it started his exploits of 1902 may be eclipsed.

Even before the voyage from Paris was half completed, the duke was witness to as snappy a barroom brawl as ever enlivened the good old days when he was Broadway's free spending celebrity.

The duke, accompanied by his wife and mother-in-law, the latter, incidentally, was required by Boris to travel second class, arrived in New York aboard the White Star liner Olympic.

Although he was reputed to have sent $1,000,000 worth of francs to this country, the duke, who is a cousin of the late czar, occupied a modest, first-class cabin stateroom and said economy prompted him to bring his mother-in-law in the second cabin. It was not like his voyage of 1902, when his suite occupied seven palatial apartments aboard their steamer. Nor is the duke the slender, hollow-eyed, sensation-craving youth who was the lion of the hour in early days of the century. The duke is tamer now, a slightly bald, breezy citizen going on 50.

Boris was dressed unpretentiously in a blue serge suit, a brown sweater and a green hat and wore on his wrist "a slave bracelet," of fine gold links. And, despite his protestations of economy, he expressed the hope of having a "gay old time."

Something of the sort started a party while the Olympic was on the high seas last Tuesday night, Jan. 13, New Year's day for Russians, so, of course, there had to be a party.

The duke passed his hand over his eyes and mopped his brow as he recalled the affair.

"No guns, thank God," he murmured piously. "Just two American gentlemen with fists."

The Olympic had not reached the 12-mile limit. Toasts were drunk to Boris, to Russia, to New Year's Day, and everything was going merrily, until someone proposed a toast to Willie Herrigan, a popular young actor and member of the Friars' club.

A gentleman named Gross saw no reason for rising. His knees were tired, it seemed, with getting up and sitting down again for so many toasts.

Herrigan remonstrated. Toasts were toasts, and he saw no reason for the slight. He may see a better one now, but with only one eye, for the other is concealed behind a black patch. Mr. Gross is sporting what is known as a "shiner," and is very touchy over the affair.

A census-taking among those in the party indicated Gross had broken a champagne bottle over Herrigan's head.

Well, with this for a start, Boris said his visit promised to be a lively one. That it will not be launched on the extravagant scale of his previous appearance here was evident from the size of his staff—one secretary, Count Nicholas.

When the duke was in good traveling form, a quarter of a century ago, he had a royal entourage requiring a special train. This time there is just the duke and duchess, who is a pretty, vivacious little woman, about 25, her mother, her niece and the count.

New York, inured to free spenders and high fliers, whether they be dukes from Russia or oilmen from Texas, will nevertheless keep an eye on Boris.

Drinking champagne from chorus girls' slippers was his favorite indoor sport back in 1902.

The restrictions imposed on moving livestock by the spread of the hoof and mouth disease had no effect on the production of "Tiger Thompson," Harry Carey's third Hunt Stromberg production playing at the Lyceum Theatre Saturday only.

Although this picture called for a great deal of location work, such scenes were filmed on Carey's ranch near Saugus, Cal., and the horses and cattle used in the picture were from the Carey range.

LOST RUM RUNNER WAS BUILT FOR SPAIN'S KING

Guilla, Sunk Off Coast of California, Had Romantic Career During Forty Years.

San Pedro, Cal.—With the sinking of the rum ship Guilla off the coast of northern California recently, it was revealed here that the vessel had a history of romance and adventure and was said once to have been owned by a king of Spain. Here is her history as told on "the beach":

When built 40 years ago for the Spanish king, the graceful clipper yacht, equipped with gold fittings and priceless draperies, was the envy of European royalty.

From the service of the king the vessel passed to that of an English merchant prince, then successively to war service, to a band of British adventurers who called her the Frontiersman, and finally, after the adventurers were bankrupt at San Pedro, into the liquor trade. She was not wanted by the legitimate lines of shipping, because she was a coal-burning vessel on an oil-burning coast.

Her decks equipped with machine guns to keep away robbers, she sailed for Havana under the new name of Guilla. Returning from Cuba, the Guilla ran out of fuel off the west coast of Mexico. Her cabin was torn down and fed to the boiler fires and, as a last resort, part of her rum cargo was fed to the flames a bottle at a time.

At Ensenada, Lower California, 35 tons of coal were obtained, and the crew prayed that this fuel would take them to Vancouver. But her progress was retarded by a storm and again the Guilla ran out of coal. She foundered at sea, a forbidden visitor to the nearby California shores which alone could give her aid.

The one-time royal clipper yacht went to the bottom, an abandoned rum runner, scuttled by her crew, reports say. All the members of the crew were rescued by a passing ship and brought to San Francisco.

MALLORY CONCERT COMPANY COMING

Will Present Concert Saturday Evening Under Auspices of Tall Cedars

AT 1ST METHODIST CHURCH

Personnel of Company Includes Violinist, Cellist, Pianist and Tenor

Much interest is being taken in the concert to be given on Saturday evening, January 24th, at the First Methodist church, under the auspices of the Tall Cedars, both for the excellence of the performers and the popularity of this energetic organization. The Mallory Concert Company, consisting of George Baum, violinist, Thomas Seddon, cellist, Percy D. Bentley, pianist and Walter Mallory, tenor, is a combination of some of the best artists in their respective lines in the Northwest.

Mr. Bentley has had a wide experience as a concert pianist and lately has specialized as an accompanist, as he seems blessed with that sixth sense which enables the accompanist to intuitively anticipate the wishes of the person whom he is accompanying.

George Baum has for the past sixteen years been a valued member of the first section of the Minneapolis Symphony orchestra and this record speaks for itself. His solo playing is a positive delight and his ensemble playing in the trio with Mr. Seddon and Mr. Bentley will prove most enjoyable.

Mr. Seddon is English born and received his instruction on the cello from some of the best teachers on the Continent. He also is a member of the Minneapolis Symphony orchestra. Though the cello is an extremely difficult instrument to play artistically because of the technical difficulties it presents, Mr. Seddon's hearers are always so enthralled by his beautiful tones that they are unconscious of the mastery technique necessary to produce such melody.

Mr. Mallory is so well known throughout the Northwest that he needs no introduction to Brainerd audiences. The fact that this will be his third appearance here within a year speaks volumes for his voice and art. During the past ten years Mr. Mallory has appeared in practically every city of any size in the Northwest, either in recitals or in connection with choral societies, and has been a successful soloist with the leading bands throughout the state. His voice is a pure lyric tenor and his singing is distinguished by his perfect and clear enunciation and intelligent interpretation.

All in all, this concert promises to be one of the most enjoyable events of the musical season. The program has been arranged by those who understand the art of successful program building, and will be given by thoroughly trained and seasoned musicians of recognized ability and personal charm.

Proposed Child Labor Federal Act Discussed by St. Francis Guild

150 LADIES AT GUILD

Speakers Included Mrs. John J. Cummins, Rev. Father Hogan, Rev. Remmis

The St. Francis Guild met yesterday at the Knights of Columbus hall with about 150 ladies present.

The president, Mrs. John J. Cummins, read the text of the proposed Child Labor amendment, with some commentaries on the amendment. Rev. James Hogan spoke on the amendment, stressing the need to study the American constitution, and become acquainted with its provisions.

His talk was a plea for study of both sides of this question, and make a decision on its merits rather than from a hearing of one side only. Following him, Rev. W. A. Remmis gave a talk along similar lines, urging a broad view and acquaintance with the constitution.

The hostesses of the meeting were Mesdames L. J. Mraz, Joe Mraz, Harry O'Brien, Oberst, J. O'Brien, McKenna, McClenahan, Jos. Murphy, and F. H. McCaffrey.

Warned in Time

In a certain suburb there is a cottage the door of which must be raised a little to be open, and for this purpose a hatchet is generally used. One night a knock came at the door and a youngster was sent to see who was there.

"Who it is?" inquired the boy.

"It's me," said a voice outside.

The youngster, recognizing the voice, shouted back: "It's Mrs. Murphy; get the hatchet."

MALLORY CONCERT COMPANY COMING

Will Present Concert Saturday Evening Under Auspices of Tall Cedars

AT 1ST METHODIST CHURCH
Personnel of Company Includes Violinist, Cellist, Pianist and Tenor

Much interest is being taken in the concert to be given on Saturday evening, January 24th, at the First Methodist church, under the auspices of the Tall Cedars, both for the excellence of the performers and the popularity of this energetic organization. The Mallory Concert Company, consisting of George Baum, violinist, Thomas Seddon, cellist, Percy D. Bentley, pianist and Walter Mallory, tenor, is a combination of some of the best artists in their respective lines in the Northwest.

Mr. Bentley has had a wide experience as a concert pianist and lately has specialized as an accompanist, as he seems blessed with that sixth sense which enables the accompanist to intuitively anticipate the wishes of the person whom he is accompanying.

George Baum has for the past sixteen years been a valued member of the first section of the Minneapolis Symphony orchestra and this record speaks for itself. His solo playing is a positive delight and his ensemble playing in the trio with Mr. Seddon and Mr. Bentley will prove most enjoyable.

Mr. Seddon is English born and received his instruction on the cello from some of the best teachers on the Continent. He also is a member of the Minneapolis Symphony orchestra. Though the cello is an extremely difficult instrument to play artistically because of the technical difficulties it presents, Mr. Seddon's hearers are always so enthralled by his beautiful tones that they are unconscious of the mastery technique necessary to produce such melody.

Mr. Mallory is so well known throughout the Northwest that he needs no introduction to Brainerd audiences. The fact that this will be his third appearance here within a year speaks volumes for his voice and art. During the past ten years Mr. Mallory has appeared in practically every city of any size in the Northwest, either in recitals or in connection with choral societies, and has been a successful soloist with the leading bands throughout the state. His voice is a pure lyric tenor and his singing is distinguished by his perfect and clear enunciation and intelligent interpretation.

All in all, this concert promises to be one of the most enjoyable events of the musical season. The program has been arranged by those who understand the art of successful program building, and will be given by thoroughly trained and seasoned musicians of recognized ability and personal charm.

150 LADIES AT GUILD

Speakers Included Mrs. John J. Cummins, Rev. Father Hogan, Rev. Remmis

The St. Francis Guild met yesterday at the Knights of Columbus hall with about 150 ladies present.

The president, Mrs. John J. Cummins, read the text of the proposed Child Labor amendment, with some commentaries on the amendment. Rev. James Hogan spoke on the amendment, stressing the need to study the American constitution, and become acquainted with its provisions. His talk was a plea for study of both sides of this question, and make a decision on its merits rather than from a hearing of one side only.

Following him, Rev. W. A. Remmis gave a talk along similar lines, urging a broad view and acquaintance with the constitution.

The hostesses of the meeting were Mesdames L. J. Mraz, Joe Mraz, Harry O'Brien, Oerst, J. O'Brien, McKenna, McClenahan, Jos. Murphy, and F. H. McCaffrey.

Warned in Time

In a certain suburb there is a cottage the door of which must be raised a little to be open, and for this purpose a hatchet is generally used. One night a knock came at the door and a youngster was sent to see who was there.

"Who it is?" inquired the boy.

"It's me," said a voice outside.

The youngster, recognizing the voice, shouted back: "It's Mrs. Murphy; get the hatchet."

McTIGUE A POOR CHAMPION, SAYS FARRELL

By HENRY L. FARRELL
(United Press Sports Editor)

New York, Jan. 22.—There is no mystery in the motive Mike McTigue has in keeping a bomb-proof barricade around the world's light-heavyweight championship. McTigue sneaked into the title and he is still sneaking along with it. He has chosen the easiest way of retaining the title for its commercial value by refusing to take any chances because he must know that the first good man he meets will take his championship away from him.

McTigue is a very likeable fellow. He is a good family man and a first-class citizen and he had to work long and hard to get what he has, but even his admirers will have to admit that he has not been a good champion.

Champions who refuse to fight are not uncommon, but McTigue has been particularly careful in choosing his opponents and picking the spots when he does go up against any kind of a risk. He has done nothing practically in the way of fighting since he beat Battling Siki that St. Patrick's Day in Dublin and, although he has made some money out of the title, he has been too cautious to get the capital out of his title that even a rather drab class should contribute.

The light heavyweight championship never has been a great money-maker. The title was regarded as so insignificant at one time that it went around begging for years and wasn't generally recognized until Carpenter had to get some kind of a title to help steam up his fight with Dempsey. The Frenchman won the title from Battling Levinsky, who had never done much with it, and then Siki came along and beat Carpenter.

When the big money boom in boxing came along with the restoration of the sport in New York, an astute manager with a diligent fighter could have made the title worth a lot of money. If the class is a back-number now, it is McTigue's fault, because interest cannot be maintained in any class unless there is a lot of activity to keep it going.

McTigue got a lot of advertising when he returned from Georgia and said that he had been "knocked" in his first fight with Young Stribling and that he was forced, with a gun in his back, to enter the ring and fight with a broken hand.

He spoiled what would have been a good chance to redeem himself when he made a miserable showing against Stribling in a return bout in Newark and he would have lost the title if the boxing law in New Jersey permitted the referee to give a decision.

Gene Tunney, the so-called American light-heavyweight champion, tried to get a match with McTigue after the second Stribling bout, when the experts agreed that Mike would be beaten the first time he met a good man in a decision fight. McTigue refused to fight Tunney and he would have been suspended if the New York Boxing Commission had any jurisdiction over him. McTigue was smart enough to remove himself from the reach of the New York commission by not taking out a license.

McTigue, however, cannot be blamed for giving the deaf ear to Tunney and Tunney is not in a good position to complain, because Tunney is holding on to his title in the same way. Tom Gibbons challenged Tunney and several promoters tried to make the match before Gibbons asked the commission to force Tunney to fight him. Until he fights Gibbons and proves the right to his own title, he can't stand within his glass house and toss verbal stones at McTigue.

Of the many mistakes that McTigue has made to discredit himself, the worst came when he accepted a match with Mickey Walker, the welterweight champion. There was nothing for him to gain in such a contest but an ordinary purse and he had everything to lose. In fact he lost everything but his title and in his case the title is only so many letters. If he had beaten or had knocked out Walker, he would have been panned for picking on a little fellow. The victory would have been worth nothing and would only have turned public opinion more against him. It is apparent that he must do most of his own handling, because it is not reasonable that a smart old manager like Paddy Mullins would arrange such a match.

As was the case in his second fight with Stribling, McTigue would have lost his title if the referee had been able to give a decision after Walker had carried the fight to him and forced him to cover up in defense in every one of the twelve rounds.

It is possible that McTigue might have been knocked out if Walker had carried a fast pace through the entire fight. But he slowed up after the fourth round. Perhaps he was tired from the exertion of clinching with a bigger and heavier man and it is also possible that Walker wanted only the moral victory of a popular decision. It is hard to figure what Walker would want with the light heavyweight championship when he would not be able to defend it. Walker is a great little fighter. Perhaps he is the best middleweight since Volcott, but he is not good enough to mingle with Tom Gibbons or Tunney.

As long as he is interested only in keeping the title and picking up small purses in contests with sure-thing opponents, McTigue will remain the champion. No commission can force him to fight, and no other boxer can make him fight unless he meets him on the street and there is nothing official about a brawl.

BASEBALL SCANDAL

DISTRICT ATTORNEY MAY ISSUE
WARRANTS FOR ALL INVOLVED

DOLAN'S COUNSEL IS EAGER FOR COMING COURT
FRAY

By HENRY L. FARRELL
New York, Jan. 22.—Investigation by the New York district attorney's office of the Dolan-O'Connell baseball scandal may bring out the real facts behind the attempt of Jimmy O'Connell to bribe Heinie Sand, Philadelphia shortstop, to throw a game last season to the New York Giants.

Commissioner Landis, according to testimony he made public recently, failed in his examination of the players mentioned in O'Connell's confirmation, to find the "man higher up" or the "gambling ring" that has been accused of suggesting or backing the attempted bribe.

Landis, as the commissioner of baseball, had no authority to swear in Cozy Dolan, former Giant coach, or to force him to remember the many things which he did not.

The district attorney will have the power to swear all of them if he finds enough evidence in the testimony turned over by Landis to seek an indictment for violation of the statute making it a felony to offer a bribe to a ball player.

The district attorney, however, will have to get Dolan and O'Connell to take their testimony. If they should wish to fight extradition they might block the whole investigation.

William J. Fallon, counsel for Dolan, said he would welcome a public or private investigation on behalf of his client, but O'Connell may not desire to place himself in the jurisdiction of the New York court after reading the statement of Commissioner Landis that he was the only one who could be convicted on the evidence secured in the investigation.

General opinion here, though, was that it was the only method by which the real facts, if there are any more to be found, could be brought out. It was recalled that an investigation of another scandal threw the Chicago authorities on the track of the White Sox 1919 scandal and if criminal investigation had not been started on that case, baseball officials might never have known of the corruption on the Chicago club.

"Baseball has been clamoring for laws to punish gamblers, players and confidence men," Johnson stated.

"Now that New York has taken the first stand in placing such a law on its statutes, we should do all in our power to punish the guilty players to the limit."

BASEBALL'S COUNCIL
IN SECRET SESSION

Chicago, Jan. 22.—Shrouded in an atmosphere of secrecy, baseball's supreme council met here at the request of Commissioner Kenesaw M. Landis. The action of the New York district attorney in probing the O'Connell-Dolan scandal probably will be discussed.

John Heydler, president of the National league, and Frank Navin, vice president of the American, and Landis compose the "advisory council."

Ban Johnson, American league president, no longer a member of the "big three" because of his fight with Landis over the scandal, meanwhile issued a statement endorsing the investigation in New York.

BIT

New York, Jan. 22.—The sturdy performances of Finland's great group of amateur athletes, headed by Paavo Nurmi, have raised the credit rating of the little Baltic nation at least $10,000,000, in the opinion of Leonard Astrom, Finnish minister to the United States and Wall street banker.

The peculiar relation of American athletics to national financing, was brought out here today when a story was told in the "street" of a dinner at the home of Charles Mitchell, president of the National City bank, at which Astrom conferred the highest decoration of Finland, the Order of the White Rose, on the banker.

The conversation naturally turned to Finland's great showing at the Olympic games in Paris, and the unprecedented performances of Nurmi and his brother Finns. Astrom found, to his amazement, that bankers had been more impressed by the showing of the nation in amateur athletics than in declaring independence from Russia.

"We believed," Mitchell said, "that a nation which could raise such sturdy athletes could pay its bills and we changed the credit rating of Finland accordingly."

As a contrast nobody could be found in the street who found a relation between Argentine finance and the professional performances of Luis Angel Firpo.

The street can see a relation between national credits and amateur athletics, but it cannot see a similar parallel in the field of professional pugilism.

Firpo may have advertised Argentina, in a way just as much as Nurmi has Finland, but the quality of the advertising is different, the street believes.

Benny Leonard Retires as World's Lightweight
Champion, Hangs Up Gloves as Mother Watches

Benny Leonard, in quitting the ring as the undefeated lightweight champion of the world, announced that he was retiring to please his mother. His long periods of training for battle were periods of great mental suffering for her and, according to Benny, "Billy" Gibson, his manager, made him see that her health would be threatened seriously by his continuance in the ring. Leonard had been champion for eight years, having won the title from Freddie Welsh.

McTIGUE A POOR CHAMPION, SAYS FARRELL

By HENRY L. FARRELL
(United Press Sports Editor)

New York, Jan. 22.—There is no mystery in the motive Mike McTigue has in keeping a bomb-proof barricade around the world's light-heavyweight championship. McTigue sneaked into the title and he is still sneaking along with it. He has chosen the easiest way of retaining the title for its commercial value by refusing to take any chances because he must know that the first good man he meets will take his championship away from him.

McTigue is a very likeable fellow. He is a good family man and a first-class citizen and he had to work long and hard to get what he has, but even his admirers will have to admit that he has not been a good champion.

Champions who refuse to fight are not uncommon, but McTigue has been particularly careful in choosing his opponents and picking the spots when he does go up against any kind of a risk. He has done nothing practically in the way of fighting since he beat Battling Siki that St. Patrick's Day in Dublin and, although he has made some money out of the title, he has been too cautious to get the capital out of his title that even a rather drab class should contribute.

The light heavyweight championship never has been a great money-maker. The title was regarded as so insignificant at one time that it went around begging for years and wasn't generally recognized until Carpenter had to get some kind of a title to help steam up his fight with Dempsey. The Frenchman won the title from Battling Levinaky, who had never done much with it, and then Siki came along and beat Carpenter.

When the big money boom in boxing came along with the restoration of the sport in New York, an astute manager with a diligent fighter could have made the title worth a lot of money. If the class is a back-number now, it is McTigue's fault, because interest cannot be maintained in any class unless there is a lot of activity to keep it going.

McTigue got a lot of advertising when he returned from Georgia and said that he had been "knuckled" in his first fight with Young Stribling and that he was forced, with a gun in his back, to enter the ring and fight with a broken hand.

He spoiled what would have been a good chance to redeem himself when he made a miserable showing against Stribling in a return bout in Newark and he would have lost the title if the boxing law in New Jersey permitted the referee to give a decision.

Gene Tunney, the so-called American light-heavyweight champion, tried to get a match with McTigue after the second Stribling bout, when the experts agreed that Mike would be beaten the first time he met a good man in a decision fight. McTigue refused to fight Tunney and he would have been suspended if the New York Boxing Commission had any jurisdiction over him. McTigue was smart enough to remove himself from the reach of the New York commission by not taking out a license.

McTigue, however, cannot be blamed for giving the deaf ear to Tunney and Tunney is not in a good position to complain, because Tunney is holding on to his title in the same way. Tom Gibbons challenged Tunney and several promoters tried to make the match before Gibbons asked the commission to force Tunney to fight him. Until he fights Gibbons and proves the right to his own title, he can't stand within his glass house and toss verbal stones at McTigue.

Of the many mistakes that McTigue has made to discredit himself, the worst came when he accepted a match with Mickey Walker, the welterweight champion. There was nothing for him to gain in such a contest but an ordinary purse and he had everything to lose. In fact he lost everything but his title and in his case the title is only so many letters. If he had beaten or had knocked out Walker, he would have been panned for picking on a little fellow. The victory would have been worth nothing and would only have turned public opinion more against him. It is apparent that he must do most of his own handling, because it is not reasonable that a smart old manager like Paddy Mullins would arrange such a match.

As was the case in his second fight with Stribling, McTigue would have lost his title if the referee had been able to give a decision after Walker had carried the fight to him and forced him to cover up in defense in every one of the twelve rounds.

It is possible that McTigue might have been knocked out if Walker had carried a fast pace through the entire fight. But he slowed up after the fourth round. Perhaps he was tired from the exertion of clinching with a bigger and heavier man and it is also possible that Walker wanted only the moral victory of a popular decision. It is hard to figure what Walker would want with the light heavyweight championship when he would not be able to defend it. Walker is a great little fighter. Perhaps he is the best middleweight since Wolcott, but he is not good enough to mingle with Tom Gibbons or Tunney.

As long as he is interested only in keeping the title and picking up small purses in contests with sure-thing opponents, McTigue will remain the champion. No commission can force him to fight, and no other boxer can make him fight unless he meets him on the street and there is nothing official about a brawl.

BASEBALL SCANDAL

MAY BE PROBED IN THE COURTS

DISTRICT ATTORNEY MAY ISSUE
WARRANTS FOR ALL INVOLVED

DOLAN'S COUNSEL IS EAGER FOR COMING COURT
FRAY

By HENRY L. FARRELL
New York, Jan. 22.—Investigation by the New York district attorney's office of the Dolan-O'Connell baseball scandal may bring out the real facts behind the attempt of Jimmy O'Connell to bribe Heinie Sand, Philadelphia shortstop, to throw a game last season to the New York Giants.

Commissioner Landis, according to testimony he made public recently, failed in his examination of the players mentioned in O'Connell's confirmation, to find the "man higher up" or the "gambling ring" that has been accused of suggesting or backing the attempted bribe.

Landis, as the commissioner of baseball, had no authority to swear in Cozy Dolan, former Giant coach, or to force him to remember the many things which he did not.

The district attorney will have the power to swear all of them if he finds enough evidence in the testimony turned over by Landis to seek an indictment for violation of the statute making it a felony to offer a bribe to a ball player.

The district attorney, however, will have to get Dolan and O'Connell to take their testimony. If they should wish to fight extradition they might block the whole investigation.

William J. Fallon, counsel for Dolan, said he would welcome a public or private investigation on behalf of his client, but O'Connell may not desire to place himself in the jurisdiction of the New York court after reading the statement of Commissioner Landis that he was the only one who could be convicted on the evidence secured in the investigation.

General opinion here, though, was that it was the only method by which the real facts, if there are any more to be found, could be brought out. It was recalled that an investigation of another scandal threw the Chicago authorities on the track of the White Sox 1919 scandal and if criminal investigation had not been started on that case, baseball officials might never have known of the corruption on the Chicago club.

"Baseball has been clamoring for laws to punish gamblers, players and confidence men," Johnson stated.

"Now that New York has taken the first stand in placing such a law on its statutes, we should do all in our power to punish the guilty players to the limit."

BASEBALL'S COUNCIL IN SECRET SESSION

Chicago, Jan. 22.—Shrouded in an atmosphere of secrecy, baseball's supreme council met here at the request of Commissioner Kenesaw M. Landis. The action of the New York district attorney in probing the O'Connell-Dolan scandal probably will be discussed.

John Heydler, president of the National league, and Frank Navin, vice president of the American, and Landis compose the "advisory council."

Ban Johnson, American league president, no longer a member of the "big three" because of his fight with Landis over the scandal, meanwhile issued a statement indorsing the investigation in New York.

New York, Jan. 22.—The sturdy performances of Finland's great group of amateur athletes, headed by Paavo Nurmi, have raised the credit rating of the little Baltic nation at least $19,000,000, in the opinion of Leonard Astrom, Finnish minister to the United States and Wall street banker.

The peculiar relation of American athletics to national financing, was brought out here today when a story was told in the "street" of a dinner at the home of Charles Mitchell, president of the National City bank, at which Astrom conferred the highest decoration of Finland, the Order of the White Rose, on the banker.

The conversation naturally turned to Finland's great showing at the Olympic games in Paris, and the unprecedented performances of Nurmi and his brother Finns. Astrom found, to his amazement, that bankers had been more impressed by the showing of the nation in amateur athletics than in declaring independence from Russia.
